AgBio (11). Companies are also developing tools to track the genetic diversity of crops and livestock. For example, the University of California, Davis, is using a microarray to monitor the genetic diversity of crops and livestock. The microarray is a chip that contains thousands of small spots of DNA. Each spot represents a different gene. By comparing the DNA of different crops and livestock, researchers can identify genetic diversity and track it over time. This information can be used to develop new crops and livestock that are more resistant to disease and pests.

Ati-Atihan Festival security tightened

By Philip J. Burgess II
The Philippine Daily Inquirer

Security for the Ati-Atihan Festival in Iloilo City was tightened Tuesday as police and military forces prepared for the annual celebration. The festival, which is one of the most colorful and lively in the Philippines, is expected to draw thousands of visitors to the city. Police officers and soldiers are stationed throughout the city, particularly in the areas where the festival activities will take place. The festival is a traditional dance and music performance that is held in honor of the Holy Spirit. It is a time of great joy and celebration for the people of Iloilo City. The festival is also a time when the community comes together to celebrate their heritage and traditions. The festival is a time of great joy and celebration for the people of Iloilo City. RP policies failed, economics guru says

By Robert D. Hargrave

WASH. POST STAFF WRITER

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — The Federal Reserve's policies to combat the recession have failed, according to a leading economics guru.

John Maynard Keynes, the British economist who helped shape modern macroeconomics, said the Fed's policies have failed.

Keynes, who died in 1946, was one of the most influential economists of the 20th century. He argued that governments should intervene in the economy to manage demand and create jobs.

Keynes's ideas were central to the development of modern macroeconomics. He argued that the economy is not self-correcting and that governments should intervene to manage demand.

Tariff on ceramic tiles slashed

By Marivic Sta. Angelo

THE PHILIPPINE CUSTOMS SERVICE has slashed the tariff on ceramic tiles from 10 percent to 5 percent, effective October 1, 2009. The move is part of the government's effort to reduce the cost of construction materials and boost the local construction industry.

The new tariff rate applies to all types of ceramic tiles, regardless of size or thickness. The move is expected to benefit local manufacturers and exporters, as well as construction companies that use tiles in their projects.

The tariff reduction is part of a broader effort by the government to stimulate economic growth and create jobs. It is also in line with the government's goal of making the Philippines more competitive in the global market.

The move is expected to have a significant impact on the local construction industry, which is currently struggling due to the economic downturn. It is hoped that the reduction will encourage more construction activity and lead to the creation of new jobs.

Experience points to domestic demand as key economic driver

Domestic demand is the key to economic growth, according to a report by the Philippine Development Commission. The report states that the domestic market is the primary source of demand for goods and services in the Philippines, and that it is essential for the government to focus on stimulating domestic demand to achieve sustainable economic growth.

Are Otoniel Gonzaga and Lea Salonga an odd couple?

Lea Salonga, Otoniel Gonzaga, and Lea Salonga performing on stage.

By David P. Santos

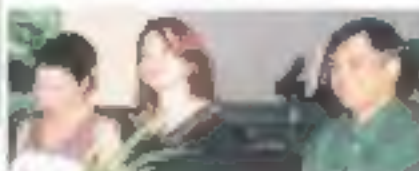

ARE Otoniel Gonzaga and Lea Salonga an odd couple? The answer is yes, if you ask them. The two performers, who have been married for 10 years, are not only different in personality but also in their approach to their craft. Gonzaga, a former actor, is more of a performer, while Salonga, a former singer, is more of a performer.

But when they are on stage, they are a perfect couple. Their chemistry is undeniable, and their performances are always a treat for the audience. They have been married for 10 years, and their love is still strong. They have two children, a son and a daughter, and they are very close to each other.
